Bagley Says O'Brien Would be Duck Soup For Gans.

"ALONE IN HIS CLASS"-TAD.

Declares There is no Way to Beat the Dark Skinned Wizard of Baltimore.

Here is what Gum Bagley says of the Nelson-Gans fight:

New York.-Did you take the tip I gave you. Bo, and get down a bet on Gans? Now that it is all over and you can shut up the dope book, there are few recollections coming.

Tom O'Rourke was tolling through his hat-the newly imported English Dowler-when he said that Gans was in for a frame. Tom looked wise-you know that "I'm on" look of Tom's when he sprung this the day before the fight, but we didn't fall for it, did Those thousand bills George Considine flaid against Sam Bernard's 600 one sheets wasn't George's own cash. George was on the coon all the way.

There are several contradictions in the fight; that is, they look contradic-tory, but they can be cleared up.

That Gans could go 42 rounds and still be strong at a weight below his best poundage. That Nelson could take a Gans lacing for 42 rounds and live. That the looser gets twice as much prize money as the winner.

The first one: Gans has always been credited by us as being a ring general of the high shoulder straps. But the whole time since he came back and knocked out Twin Sullivan he has shown himself a very Napoleon of the Gans knew down in his kicks that he was in bad. But he also knew what he could do with his hands. He had to npress that knowledge on the dear old paying pub.

Then he began a campaign all by himself, for I believe now that he has cut foose from Herford. No matter what he said and Herford said, it was a tase of show me. Gans has shown. He knocked out Sullivan. That showed that he was the old Gans. But that wasn't enough. He had to be careful. He couldn't be too good. The flock of lightweights in the field had the best waiter. Both Britt and Nelson poohpoohed the idea. What, fight a nigger How dare he insinuate such a thing! And hen the nigger's past was cloudy 'here were bugs on his escutcheon.

They got away with this bunk and Gans let them. He couldn't get anything by threats, so he began to coax. He took on Willie Lewis. Willie beat him. Ha, ha; Gans wasn't so awful good at that. Gans had slowed and slipped back a few. Nolan began to take no-

Jack Blackburn came next on the program. Gans won by a shade. More ha-ba's and more notice. How the "Agger" must have chortled in his bed as he saw the terrible black shadow grow pale and thin before the hereto-ore scared gaze of the game.

And the wise Nolan fell. The slicktt, cleverest, coldest of fight manags was decoyed within range and by the brain of a "nigger." But even then the patience of the plotter never let up for a moment. Gans continued his for a moment. Gans continued his campaign. He let Nolan get everything All the money. Every crazy concession that Nolan demanded. All Gans wanted was Nelson in the ring. He was fearful up to the tinkle of the bell that the quarry might slip through the tall grass and get away from him-might take fright again and skidoo.

And when at last his long patience and careful planning was rewarded, he had to make a sure job of it. That's why the fight lasted forty-two rounds, lans knew that Nelson was but a plaything for him, but he must be al-ways on guard for that unexpected chance that sometimes blows in. paint on a tin soldier may poison the

But Gans is greater than even this. He is the best matchmaker we ever had. And Nolan-I wish it were peace to But the Nolan yawp continue to be heard in the land, Well, Gans will take Nelson on again And then Gans will make the conditions. Don't you think he won't When it comes to a battle of wits be-tween this "nigger" and this white man, put the old homestead on the "nigger" this time.

GANS ALONE SAYS TAD.

New York .- Will there ever be another man like Joe Gans?

There never was one up to yester-day, and some of us were foolish enough to think that he had gone back some, and that this rushing, ripping Dane, who had downed all before him, would wear the great Gans down.

There was no chance at all against this black marvel. He just peppered the Dane with lefts and rights, his rushes with punches straight from the shoulder, fought him breast to breast and beat him as no man was ever beaten before.

Battling Nelson made the greatest uphill battle againts the greatest fighter that ever lived and spoiled it with a foul at the finish.

Had Nelson lost by being knocked out he would be an idol today. He lacked the champion around, battling against tremendous odds, never stopknew that it wasn't a straight eye nor ping for a moment, forcing when loud powder that fetched the game. It blinded by the other man's blows, but made a finish that put a big blot on his reputation.

Many think the Dane, who was blinded, seeing no chance of victory, deliberately fouled his opponent to save himself the humiliation of a knockout. Others, who greatly ad-mire the Dane and are extremely sympathetic toward him, think that, being half blind, he may have swung wildly.

To be on the square about it, there seemed to be no chance for Nelson at all unless the old master broke a leg or something of that sort. At that, there is credit due the Dane. He stayed 42 rounds with this wizard of the ring and was still on his feet. The right and left handers that had downed the greatest men of the light-weight division fell on him like rain on a stone pavement. He was beaten cruelly, but look over the fight and see if he ever backed away from the gruel-He did all that was expected of Gans did that and more,

What is the use of any man trying to beat Gans now? There is no way to beat him. He was brought down below his regular fighting weight, trained to almost skin and bone, and then beat the toughest lightweight that ever lived.

All the glory of this grand fight bevas the class, and he proved it every way you figure.

The question of the wallop is still in the air, however.

The Gans men figured Joe to wit easily in 10 rounds. He did land ef-fectively at least 100 times with both hands before the gong sounded for the eleventh round, but Neison failed to take the count once. Was it his endurance or has Gans

After the twentieth round it looked as though they might fight for a week. There was no more fear of a terrible punch. Both had landed often enough punch. Both had landed often enough if there was to be a knockout, Gans, with his cleverness, his knowledge of ring tactics, his ability as a blocker, was an almost certain winner after

VALUE OF THE AUTOMOBILE.

San Francisco Strike and Earthquake Have Enhanced Its Public Esteem.

Never has the value of the automobile been more thoroughly demonstrated than during the last few months in San Of necessity, the city has been obliged to use the motor cars for transportation, and the recent fire, and the more recent strike, have brought the automobile into a popular use, from which position it will not be allowed to slide back. In the past, the automobile has, perhaps, been for the classes. Yet there can be no denying, as the photo-graphs will show, that lately it has been a means of travel for the masses. But for the machines which have served the city it would have been well righ impossible to have coped with the situation, and many people would have walked long distances or stayed at home. During the strike of the week just ended, hundreds of persons have taken to the automobile for the first ime. If not in the tonneau cars, they have ridden in the large passenger onches, which have come to stay.

The old idea of the automobile being serely a toy for pleasure hunters, that they might ride luxuriously in spacious carriages, has ceased. The usefulness and really the necessity of the automobile has appealed to the mind, and all over the people are viewing the ma-When the strike came automobiles

STICK TO ENGLISH NAMES.

By This Method Coaches Figure Games With English Teams Will Be Facilitated.

The undergraduates at the University of California have taken hold of the new form of intercollegiate football introduced for the big game between Stanford and California this year, and all indications point to a successful season of Rugby. When the college opened for the fall term three weeks ago indications pointed to a rather dark outlook. However, this week the outlook for the California team is much bright-

In handling the large squad of aspirants for positions on the team Coach Taylor and Trainer Walter Christie have been considerably handicapped by the lack of a suitable field for practise. The old baseball field, out of sheer necessity, was pressed into service but in widening the field and making it suitable for the new game. The remodeling of the new field means an outlay of $8,000, but the associated students are confident of the success of the new game as a college sport and have al-ready concluded negotiations for the work of remodeling the field. LEARNING THE GAME.

Although Rugby is not fully understood by the student body at the uni-versity, the men on the squad are rapidly getting a knowledge of the new game. In order to better acquaint the undergraduates at large with the style of play to be used this fall, and at the same time insure a sufficient number of practise games to bring the men into the pink of condition, Dr. Taylor has arranged a series of interclass matches to be played between the class teams for a permanent championship cup. E. K. Wolf, general manager of Spalding & Co's stores on the coast, has made this last feature possible by donating a championship cup which, it is will be perpetual. The ning class at each year's series will have its numerals inscirbed on the cup and in this manner it is expected that the rivalry between the classes for supremacy will be greatly stimulated. It is expected, however, that four or five matches will be secured with outside teams. It is practically assured that Pomona college will play against the varsity in Los Angeles, and a husky team is now being organized in the Chica Rice. being organized in the Chico High school which will probably be matched against the freshman team.

The intercollegiate freshman match has been set for Saturday, Oct. 13, and the varsity game for Nov. 10.

COACH'S VIEW.

Dr. Taylor says of the game; The English Rugby field is the same length as the American Rugby field, but is 20 yards wider. This allows greater freedom for passing, kicking and running. The sides and ends of the field are marked in white lines as are also the center, 10-ye d and 25-yard lines. The goal posts are the same as we are used to.

we are used to.
"We must at the beginning learn the terms used. The colleges here have dacided to use the English terms in order help make the game international and thus to pave the way for international contests. "A try corresponds to our touchdown, A touchdown is our touchback.

"A safety is the same as with us.
"Held' is when the player carrying the ball carnot pass it and must be followed by a scrummage. Instead of scrimmage the term 'scrummage er fairly and squarely between the two lines of forwards by the side to whom the ball belongs. This gives each side an even chance at the ball. When the American Rugby authorities changed this rule so as to give one side or the other undisputed possesion of the hall, the foundation was laid for all the ob. jectionable features which have ated such an uprar throughout the country. "Offside ruling is practically the same as with us, with one big exertion, however, When a back has kicked the ball and the men in front of him are offside, as in our game, the of him are offside, as in our game, they may not touch the ball or tackle until the catcher has gone five yards with the ball, nor may they intentionally come within ten yards of such catcher. If the men, however, are on-side as after the kick-off or drop-out, or after the kicker has run up in front of them they have the same chance at the ball as their opponents, "A free kick is the penalty for off-side plays, for unnecessary roughness or handling (only kicking allowed) the ball in the scrum, for interference or obstruction, and for other infringe-ments. Distance penalties are not given in English Rugby." Rugby differs from the American game of football in that there are not a certain number of downs in which a certain number of downs in which to make five yards. The side which has the ball, by running, as in the old game, tries to make a touchdown. If the man who has the ball is tackled and held, the two teams line up for a scrimmage. They form in a style similar to the old formation, but the ball is sent along the ground between the two lines, and is anybody's property. two lines, and is anybody's property It cannot be handled, but is heeled by one of the men to one of the backs.

DEATH BLOW TO "DOPE" PILE

Here is the Plain Anti-Dope Law Recently Passed By Congress

"Any preparation is illegal if the Package fails to bear a statement on the label of the quantity and proportions of any morphine, opium cocaina heroine, alpha or beta eucaine, chloroform, cannabis-indica, choral, choral hydrate or any derivitave or preparation of any such substances. Any mixture or drugs is uniswful if it bears any Device, Design or Statement on the package which is faise or misleading in any particular.

Above are the poisons entering into all pile medicines EXCEPT E-RU-SA-PILE CURE. If the "dope" preparations are not labeled they are fliegal and if truthfully labeled they are unlawful, because they claim to cure piles whereas a standard medical authority, viz: "United States Dispensatory says it false, as follows: "They (narcotics) are not supposed to exercise any specific curative influence. In Piles ergot probably acts ONLY in producing severe local inflammation. Ergot is highly dangerous even when the quantity used is so small that no immediate effects are perceptible. The chief action of conium is upon the motor nerve, which it paralyzs. Acetate of Lead may give rise to chronic Lead Poisoning." motor nerve, which it paratyzs. Acetate of Lead may give the Polsoning."

Not one syllable in this standard medical authority justifies the claim any of the old pile medicines cure. They destroy vitality.
